ELIZABETH A. BROWN. My Case is a Miracle!

PRAISE GOD, I AM WELL!!

LEWISTON, ME., Oct. 28, 1890.

Dana Sarsaranilla Co.:—

Gentlemen,—For over ten years I have been a great sufferer with yeakness peculiar to my sex. I would have for days at a time a terrible bearing-down feeling, accompanied by great erhaustion and severe pain in back and limbs. I would go to bed fatigued, and rise in the morning more exhausted than when I retired. Often after rising I would have a period of trembling, until at last my nerves were in a state of complete prostration. I would have little or no appetite. Almost constant headache, accompanied by strange sensations, etc. Such was my condition when I first heard of DANA'S BARSAPARILLA. Though I am but forty-three years of age, yet my

The second one gave me a good appetite, and caused me to rest better nights. I continued to use it, and continued to improve, till I had taken eleven bottles. And, praise God, I am WELL! IT HAS CURED ME! I feel like a new person! I have increased in flesh from minety-one pounds to a hundred and forty-six pounds, and enjoy life once and forty-six pounds, and enjoy life once more. of the new tariff it must be remembered, editorially says

The McKinley bill has been in operation but a few months, and the market is hand-leapped by stocks of goods brought in under the old duty. What are the tendencies of the McKinley bill that are slieged to lead to an increased use of shoddy? Certainly the paramoust effect of the bill is to diversify the production of the mills and to encourage makers to improve their product. Under the old tariff the demession manufacturers were restricted to fewer fabrics, and being crowded within a small compass the natural tendency was to depress prices and the use of substitutes was stimulated.

Thouble is feared.

The exit of the Canadian commissioners' is about to be follywed by a very important ruling of Secretary Foster. It will be promulgated in a day or two. It will do away with the system of consular seals and bouding privileges which Canadian ratiroads have so long enjoyed and which American roads have attacked as an Us-Americaja Discrimination.

Ca-Americas Discrimination.

Heretofore when goods have been imported through Canada from foreign countries to the United States there have been no custom examinations on the border. The United States consul sealed up the door of the car. This carried it through to its point of destination in the United states without examination. But under the order which Secretary Foster is about to saue there will be no more consular seals and no more bonding goods through Canada.

seals and no more bonding goods through Canada.

These goods will hereafter undergo customs examination at the point where they first tonds American territory.

It is expected that this change will be of material advantage to American roads.

Aside from this it is believed the arrangement will put an end to numberless frauds which have grown up as a result of consular scaling.

It was proved that the Canadian Pacific had a complete outfit for manufacturing these United States Consular seals and that it put on scale and took them off as k asw fit without reference to the United States Consular heats and States Consula whe were supposed to do

"Brain Thre-Shartered Nerven-Nerven Prestration—Insanity—Beath it."
Such is the hand writing which bluzes in letters of the it the lives of thousands, and it means ruin of health, ruin of body, ruin of mid, ruin of life.
Are you so blind that you cannot interpret the hand writing.
Do you not know that disordered stomach, torpid liver and tregular bowels will in time devi salze your blood and low vitality will make an invalid of you after awhile.

The hetter was signed by a lawyer of the village, who, pendendly, was in charge of the dead man's business affairs.

Armed with the colonel's per-mission he plunged at once into the midst of thangs, and after a moment's hesitancy she sat down and frankly told him what had happened, and how it had happened, and joined him in marveling at the strange links of circumstance that had brought so joyful a catastrophe. She presed him to stay to lunch, but his limited time obliged him to decline, and so with smeere regret he left her, to harry home to make the last prepara-

And new his stay in Washington wis me entred by minutes. Once at home, he bolted his lunch, settled his account with the regretful Mrs. Ex, reciprocated compliments and regrets with Miss Sophia, and gave the parting directions and durands to the bidges who were to tollow hum northward in a few days. Wr. Quire was at home and among them at lunch also, but ungommonly glum and silent; for he, too, had gotten a letter that morning—a letter de cachet on the shape of a brief, cold order to craise for three years in the antipodes. They all congratulated him, and at the same time expressed their deep sorrow at parting, but the lieutenant, who, as a wandere, bad some skill in inherpreting the language of farewells, could not but notice that the young ladies aconsessed in their loss with ready resignation.
"So punch the better," thought the fleutenant. "It would be foolish to get all faugled up just before a long cruise Besides, there s no telling what I might strike a would of how a woman would seem three years later and so they parted and I'll write her, a pretty note. Well, let it go so. It wasn't a very glorious campaign. My love's gone wrong, and my clearly less hanged himself, but I have brought happiness and been a blessing to others, and as for myself, there is still the fothers.

Dr Benjamin Frankhi wrote, para-phrasing Horace, 'As well might a read-er expect completeness in the preface as in life, that preface to eternity.' Never-theless a novel reader does expect com-pleteness, pays for the volume on that understanding, and very properly feels cheated if on examination he finds his little toy world only half done. What, then, has happened in the four years that have elapsed since the principal L'ENVOY that have elapsed since the principal events that have been narrated in the foregoing pages? Col. McArille and Louise were married in the spring, went abroad on an extendat the spring, went and since their return bave lived quietly and happily in Washington. They have one son—Thomas ington. They have one Bassett McArdle.

marriage threw Miss Clara Wills into a delicious rever of excitement, and amply confirmed her belief that "Lulu Sheffield was splendid, but deep, very deep." Clara is still single, though now that Lieut. Quiro has returned from the Asiatic station they are much together, and rumor has it that they are more than "only friends," despite Miss Clara's dec-laration to that effect.

He is still a backetor Florence Bassett is Mrs. Poter Steven the loving, happy wife of a strong and loyal man. And with whom does the reader suppose they play bezique these wintry nights in slush bound New York? Why, with Mr. and Mrs. Atwood, to be sure, and Mrs. Atwood is none other than our affable and sensible Miss Sophia After Mrs. Ex's table was so broken up by the departure of the Bassetts, Stevens and Quire, Mr. Atwood and Miss Sophia were left quite dangerously alone. At-wood, as the magnate had sake, knew a good thing where he saw it, and for that reason, in his silent and matter of fact way, had been thinking Miss Sophia over for some time; and so one day he told her she would do, and she did. The con-sequence is not have say it with the conher she would do, and she did. The con-sequence is, as they say in the circuntous game of that name, that she is now a happy mother, rides in her own carrage, and will no doubt be a wealthy woman. Mr. Atwood, after the diplomatic episo'e which gave Stevens his opportunity, had his salary raised for the tact he had displayed in betraying by express di-rection, certain alleged secrets whereby a large flock of credulous "lamba" stumbled over one another in their engerness to get first to the shearer's knife. To these poor, shivering folk the "Old Man" did not figure as a benevolent genie, but as an abhorred wrecker lighting false beacons on a dangerous coast. Stevens, beacons on a dangerous coast. Stevens, as a clerk in the company's office, learned the history of the case, and had his laugh over the incident with Atwood, whom he came to like, and whom he found, him other men, to be, outside of the tricks of his trade, an honorable man.

play which we state was presented last night, but which everybody knows was not produced at all. The star met with Managing Editor—Our dramatic critic had attended the rehearsals, and his criticism was prepared in advance. Instead of coming to the effice to notify any not to publish it, he sent a messenger, but the message was not delivered. Our critic is much to blame for trusting such an important matter to a chance messenger, and I intend to make an example of
